

Class Actions in Australia

Damian Grave and Ken Adams

Class Actions in Australia is the first work of its kind to be published in Australia. With a practical focus, this work covers all aspects of class action litigation, including commencement, choice of forum, pleadings, opting out, conduct, settlement and costs.

Class Actions in Australia is a one-stop shop on class action litigation and contains the leading cases and essential legislation that practitioners need to know on this area of law. It also contains useful examples of pleadings, notices, settlement agreements and other necessary forms.

Written in a clear, easy-to-read style, this work is essential for any legal practitioner involved in class action litigation.

Authors Damian Grave and Ken Adams are both partners at Freehills in Melbourne, and are experienced commercial litigators. Both authors were involved in the defence of the Longford Class Action - the largest class action in Australian legal history.
